JOHN I. PITTS,
[illegible]

WAR MAY BE DECLARED.

War with Spain now appears certain. The report of the Court of Inquiry, [illegible] shows that the battleship Maine was destroyed in Havana harbor and 266 seamen killed. [illegible] Senate Tuesday Senator Tillman offered a resolution declaring Cuba a free republic and declaring war against Spain. This was greeted with enthusiastic cheering in the Senate. Senators Lodge and Frye also introduced similar resolutions. They were all referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

[illegible] interposition of these resolutions [illegible] in which he asked the Government of the United States as well as Spain. Senator Mason of Illinois was in favor of war and he orders must come.

Tuesday night a caucus of Republican members of the House was held. over fifty members were present. This the Committee on Foreign Affairs and every member is pledged to the policy of intervention. It is said that enough democrats will join with the Republicans to insure a clear working majority.

Unless the unexpected happens and Spain makes a complete backdown, war will soon be declared. There is a [illegible] in both countries [illegible] to be a conflict, and perhaps [illegible] will be secured to prevent the commencement of hostilities. A [illegible] will end the present situation.

[illegible] National Guard, as its name implies, is subject to military duty at the command of the Government. While the guard of New York State has no right to interfere in troubles in Pennsylvania, for instance, in times of peace, it would be at the command of the President in time of war just like the regular army troops, now known as the United States Army. The permission of a Governor of a State for the President to make use of the National Guard of that State would not be necessary. In case the Governor refused to [illegible] the President could assume charge of it at once, and [illegible] would be obliged to serve in the army. [illegible] Spain [illegible] a recent writer in [illegible] Spain [illegible] the Spanish people.

In the excitement of the last few weeks [illegible] Spain [illegible] the fact that [illegible] Spain [illegible] the United States [illegible] in the Spanish [illegible] the Constitution [illegible] all the territory of the United States.

[illegible] Europe [illegible] death rate is the highest in Europe [illegible] of its young men have been killed in the Philippine and Cuban wars, while another 50,000 have been taken away from the natural productive industries. To this awful drain must be added the support of a standing army of 9,000,000 men to prevent the overthrow of the monarchy. There are weekly riots and with cause. The average wages paid is 20 cents a day in the city and 20 cents in the country. Wheat, owing to the heavy tax imposed on the merchants sells today for $2.80 a bushel. The national debt is larger than that of the United States. At the present time Spain is struggling under a debt of over $2,000,000,000. All of its national resources are pledged, and even doubly pledged, to foreign financial concerns, and the treasury is but a short remove from irretrievable bankruptcy and ruin.

There is little if any hope for Spain. If she goes to war she will be crushed and if she does not go to war there will be a collapse. In either case the end will come to a civilization which has no [illegible]

The Senator's first sentence commanded instant attention. It was a delicate and touching reference to the loss of his wife on this memorable trip. He said he spoke by command of those lips now silent in death. It was, he said, Mrs. Thurston's dying request to him that he should lose no time on account of illness in doing his utmost to save and free Cuba and its people. The speech was a masterly effort and displayed the Senator's wonderful powers as an orator. As he neared the end his large audience was weeping. Following so close after Senator Proctor's speech [illegible] excited the American people. At one point in his speech Senator Thurston said the American people should send markets with the food and medicine they are giving to the starving Cubans. After detailing scene after scene of suffering and anguish, he said: "I shall refer to these horrible things in further. They are there, God [illegible] me! I have seen [illegible] in my [illegible]

On holiday in Death.

Many a hardworking man and woman in each day's toil, is pulling a "tug of war" with death for an antagonist.

They fail to take proper care of their health. When they suffer from indigestion or a slight bilious attack they "wear it out." After a while these disorders wear out the reckless man or woman and they fall to consumption, malaria, rheumatism, or some [illegible] these diseases. It is free to all. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all the maladies named. It cures the cause. It makes the appetite hearty, the digestion perfect, the liver active and the blood pure. It is the great blood maker, flesh builder and nerve tonic. Don't let a druggist impose on you with a more profitable substitute.

"I had a very severe pain in the small of my back, where my hips join on to my body, and it hurt so that I thought I was going to come apart," writes Wm. Z. Powers, Esq., of Iron Shades, Henry Co., Va. "My doctor came and pronounced it rheumatism. He gave me a prescription but I got no better but worse. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from my druggist and commenced to use it. I began to improve at once and got well. Now I am in perfect health. no pain, no rheumatism."

Nearly every disease known to doctors and the treatment is described in Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. One thousand and eight pages and [illegible] three hundred illustrations. [illegible] twenty-one one-cent stamps to cover mailing only to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. [illegible] French cloth binding ten cents extra. This book is a veritable medical library in one volume.

"Stay there, my dear. I can't play with you now. [illegible] sister and I have done it, but I can't see how. I guess I'll go tell mamma."

But mamma was not home, so not knowing what to do I went up-stairs and began to cry. Presently I heard the front door close, and I ran down hoping to see mamma. But no one was there. Worse than all, Mr. Bob's overcoat was gone, with Adelaide in its pocket!

I burst into the parlor—no Mr. Bob was there. Sister was lying on the couch with her face in a cushion and her pearly ring was on the table.

"I want Adelaide," I said. "Where is he?"

"He has gone," she answered, and I knew by her voice that she was crying. "He will never come back—never, never."

I waited for no more, but darted out of the front door and down on the street as fast as my [illegible] me. I saw Mr. Rob far ahead. He was walking slowly, and his head was bent as if he was thinking.

"Mr. Bob! Mr. Bob!" I cried as loud as I could. "I want Adelaide! Wait, Mr. Bob!"

At last I made him hear, for [illegible] ed around. He looked as if he wanted to cry, but he couldn't.

"I want Adelaide," I said. "She is in your pocket. I put her there to take a nap while I was busy, and then [illegible] went away."

He drew her slowly out [illegible] et and looked at her.

"I am going to kiss her, Margaret," he said, and he talked just as I did when I buried my kitty, "for she brought me the only real, true friend I ever knew."

"You thankless [illegible] fool. "You have made my sister cry and I hate you! I like Mr. Lincoln ever so much better [illegible] shan't be Adelaide?" And I [illegible] Wright.

I started to run, but Mr. Bob stopped me. He looked as if the sun was shining in his face and he [illegible] hardly see [illegible]

"Yes, I did," she [illegible] he can—"

"And did you say that sister was crying when you left?"

"Yes, and I expect she will get sick [illegible]

"Come," he said, "put Adelaide [illegible] in my pocket and sit up here on my shoulder. We will go to sister [illegible] make her laugh again."

He has such big shoulders that it is lots of fun to ride on them, and this time he went faster than he ever had [illegible] We went into the parlor very quietly. He lifted me from his shoulders and bending over off the couch put both his arms around sister.

Like plasters and liniments, these helped from the counter-irritation they created, and we may presume that had Mr. Geo. W. Hoagland, proprietor of a barber shop at No. 424 Fulton street, Peoria, Pa., lived in the time of Henry III. of England, in place of taking the course he did a short time ago when his wife's back bleed letting would have been resorted to. HE'S A LOBSTER.

An Expression That Originated in Jersey's All-Winter Race Tracks.

The expression "he's a lobster" which has now become so general in colloquial use about town as to convey a pointed message of contempt or derision, has a somewhat peculiar origin. There is nothing about a lobster, [illegible] the elder Dumas, it may be recalled, described [illegible] invite derision; but a few years ago [illegible] especially in neighboring New Jersey, a mud horse that failed to realize the expectations of those who had wagered upon it was called a "lobster," an allusion to its mode of progression. Horses which had been generally defeated were lobster horses, and as this colloquial expression came to be more pen[illegible] and things as well as [illegible] car was a car that made slow time, a lobster boat was a boat in which a fast time could not be expected. A lobster calculator was a man who took too long in the judgment of his critics to add up an account, and so gradually the name lobster has come to be accepted as a designation of sloth in [illegible] and "he's a lobster" has come to be regarded as a phrase of disapproval. TO BANISH WORRY.

SOCIETIES FORMED ALONG THE LINES OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

A Cousin of Lincoln's Secretary of State Promulgates the Rules Upon the Principle That Worry Never Has Done and Never Can Do Aught but Harm.

A cousin of Lincoln's Secretary of State [illegible] the [illegible] and heavy and to might but [illegible]

Drive dull care to the winds. Away with worry. Worried is to be banished from a journal Utopia, in which every person will pursue the even tenor of his way, and in which there will be neither [illegible] nor the cause of worriment. All you have to do is to buy a copy of Mr. Seward's little [illegible] and spend the remainder of your existence without a thought of the morrow, what you shall eat or what you shall drink, or wherewithal you shall be clothed. The secret of happiness shall be yours. If you are a tailor, and your patrons forget to pay their bills, and you will learn to get along without worrying about it. And if, as a consequence of the forgetfulness of your patrons, you are unable to meet your own obligations, you must get your creditors to join a "Don't Worry" circle, and then you will be all right.

The founder of this crusade against brain exhaustion and nervous prostration is a cousin of former Secretary of State William H. Seward. He is a musician by profession, and until recently [illegible] Theodore Tiemann's College. He has long devoted his attention to Christian science, that is [illegible] brotherhood of Christian Unity.

Mr. Seward claims that Americans, above all others, are slaves to the [illegible] God's. If worry can be conquered [illegible] happiness will disappear.

The habit of worrying cannot be [illegible] effort. But with such effort the habit certainly can be mastered. If the following suggestions are [illegible] gently observed the habit will leave [illegible] which rids the human heart of its natural happiness and raises the spirit [illegible] of [illegible] whether life is [illegible] worth the living.
